Dear Bill:

Dun & Bradstreet has an interest in a most unusual company called Oxford Analytica. Its principal service is to provide its clients on a daily, on-line basis, authoritative and timely analyses of important world events. Numbering four to six each day, the analyses are prepared by leading world experts. Covered developments may be political, military, economic, social or technological in nature. A more detailed description is contained in the enclosed brochure.

Oxford would like to expand its existing client base. In trying to help them with that objective, it has occurred to me that your organization might have a use for this type of service.

On Wednesday morning, December 16, the managing director of Oxford, David Young, will be in Washington. Is there a possibility that he could meet with you or one of your people who is familiar with your information needs as they relate to the kinds of products and services that Oxford has to offer?

Sincerely,

CT:saw

P.S. Looking forward to seeing you at the Tennis Ranch in January. My game has improved.
